ANTIGUA HONEYMOON BRIT MAY BE BRAINDEAD

GROOM HAS BULLET IN HIS BRAIN

BY NICK HORSLEY

The husband of a British doctor shot dead in their honeymoon hotel in Antigua has a bullet lodged in his brain, police wonder today.

Dr Jason Phillips was taken to a local hospital after being shot in the forehead while on his honeymoon. The 35-year-old, who is a doctor, is in a critical condition.

His wife, Catherine, also 33, died shortly after the shooting. She was shot in the chest while trying to help her husband. She was taken to the same hospital but died shortly after.

Police are investigating the shooting and have arrested a man named Anthony. He is currently in custody and is being held in a local prison.
